Boundary Line in Lake Erie Demarked by Buoys.

(Bulletin Special)

Washington, D.C., Oct. 16 — Captain Chatter of the U. S. revenue cutter, Merrill has reported to his government on the fishing dispute in Lake Erie. He states that the American fishermen have been transgressing and that the Canadian Authorities have been exceedingly lenient. Temporary buoys have been placed for the entire length of the lake at intervals of five miles. It is intended to replace these next spring with permanent ones.

Captain Denny

RETURNS FROM THE NORTH.

Spent Over a Year With the Police Party Cutting the Klondike Trail

Capt. C. Denny, one of the oldest members of the R. N. W. M. P., returned on Monday night from Fort Graham on the Finlay River. Capt. Denny left Edmonton in May, 1905, with the Peace-Yukon Trail party under Inspector Richards. He had charge of the pack train that forwarded supplies to the party.

The trail party consisted of twenty men and have succeeded in cutting a trail eight feet wide from Fort St. John on the Peace to Fort Graham on the Finlay river, a distance of 207 3-4 miles. Capt. Denny describes the country as very hilly and covered with jack pine. He has several specimens of minerals which he intends to send to an assay office.

Capt. Denny left Fort Graham a month ago and travelled alone by canoe to Rocky Mountain Portage on the Peace River. He fastened two pine logs one on each side of the canoe, and was able to make the journey in safety.

The rapids at thiss point forced him to portage fifteen miles across to Hudson's Hope, a trading port of the Hudson's Bay Company. Leaving his baggage Capt. Denny trudged across to the port to get the loan of the factor's horse. When he reached the post he learned that the horse had been killed by wolves. On his way back he found an old wheelbarrow that had been used used by a Klondike party. He used the wheel barrow to convey his baggage, which took four days.

From Hudson's Hope he descended the Peace on a raft as far as Peace River Crossing. From this point he crossed the country to Lesser Slave Lake, where he took one of the Revillon boats to Athabasca Landing.

The members of the trail party have John in order to winter their horses, and will set out again next summer when Capt. Denny again expects to join them.

Capt. Denny expects to leave for Calgary this afternoon to confer with the commissioner of the R. N. W. M. P. and to get the mail which has been accumulating there since he went away a year and a half ago. He will also look after the publication of his book, "The Riders of the Plains," which he intends to issue in a second edition. This book was published at the instance of Lord Strathcona, and is compiled from Capt. Denny's diary, which he has faithfully kept since coming to the country in 1874.

EDMONTON OPPORTUNITIES

"The Canadian Grocer" Under the above title the Edmonton board of trade issued an attractive booklet last month for distribution among the members of the Canadian Manufacturers' party. Thre introduction consists of a quotation from an article appearing in the Western Board of Trade issue of this paper last June and it is followed by a mass of information about Edmonton given in concise and readable form. Edmonton undoubtedly offers splendid opportunities as a manufacturing site and the board of trade are alive to the necessity of advertising.

The Tax Rate

FOR EDMONTON IS 10 1-2 MILLS.

Council Accepted Revised Estimates and Struck the Rate Last Night.

At the city council meeting last night the secretary-treasurer presented the amended estimates which call for an expenditure during 1906 of $109,724.19.

The secretary-treasurer pointed out that a rate of 7 1-4 mills for general purposes, which would make a total rate, including school and debenture tax, of 10 1-2 mills, would bring the city $113,197, leaving $3,472.81 to cover incidentals.

The estimates were accepted by the council and the rate struck at 10 1-2 mills.

City Council

MET IN REGULAR SESSION.

Busy Meeting of Aldermen at City Hall Last Night—Many Petitions Granted.

At the city council meeting last night there were present Ald. Mays, Manson, Griesbach, Smith, Picard and Calhoun, Mr. Newell being present to represent the city solicitor.

Ald. Picard was elected to the chair, vice Mayor May, who was in Ottawa.

Under the head of communications a letter from the Pacific Live Stock Association regarding the insurance of the horses of the fire department was read and on motion of Ald. Manson, seconded by Ald. Calhoun, it was resolved that if the financial standing of the company was found good the horses should be insured.

The veterinary inspector who examined the horses which the fire department purchased for the fire department, reported that with a few minor defects they were O K, and Secretary Kinnaird reported that the fire chief was satisfied with the horses. The report was adopted.

R. R. Jamieson, superintendent of the C. P. R., wrote stating that the company's agent here had been instructed to keep Athabasca and Peace avenues as clear as possible of cars, but stated that the fault was not really theirs as the C. N. R. had charge of the switching operations.

Government Architect Hopkins wrote inclosing a request for $250 on account of services rendered in connection with the isolation hospital. The account was ordered paid.

J. A. Kenny, of the Trades and Labor council,wrote protesting against a reduction from $2.25 for nine hours to $2 on city work, and inclosing a minimum rate of the Laborers' union. Secretary Kinnaird said that the secretary of the Trades and Labor council was not properly informed, as the wages on city work had not been reduced.

Ald. Manson said that one of the members of the Laborers' union told him that they had been notified that the wages were to be reduced on Monday morning.

Commissioner Pace said that the city engineer had been informed that the city would stand aloof and would not undertake to set the wages, and that the wages would not be reduced.

On motion of Ald. Bellamy and Smith the letter was filed and the secretary instructed to inform Mr. Kenny that no reduction was being made.

Short, Cross & Bigger wrote as solicitors for Mr. Little asking that Water avenue, on the east end flat, near Fraser's mill, be opened by public authority. A contemporaneous letter was read from D. R. Fraser, stating that the Fraser company intended to close Water avenue within ten days. A third letter from the commissioners stated that the city did not consider itself liable for any trespass on Water avenue, on the Fraser property was also read.

A committee of Ald. Griesbach,Manson and Picard, together with the commissioners were appointed to see about opening up the street.

A petition from the residents of Macdonald flats for a road to the city was placed in the hands of the same committee.

W. C. King, of Winnipeg, wrote pointing out the difficulty settlers had of getting into the Peace River country from Edmonton, as the Fort Assiniaboin trail was impassable. On motion of Ald. Griesbach, seconded by Ald. Smith, the matter was referred to the board of trade, with a request to lay it before the provincial government.

Another letter from the builders' laborers anticipating a cut in wages, was read and the correspondents informed that no reduction on city work was contemplated.

The property holders on Clara, between First and McDougall, petitioned for water and sewer. The petition was granted.

Norwood residents petitioned that they had been creditably informed that the house being built on lots 15 and 16 and on lot 14, Norwood, was for immoral purposes, and asking that the permit be withheld.

Mr. Newell stated that this had already been referred to the city solicitor and that the permit could not be refused until the proposed use of the house had been proven.

The petition was filed.

A petition for a sidewalk crossing from the north end of the Namayo sidewalk across Wilson street and the necessity of a crossing at Jasper on the east side of First, from the Bank of Nova Scotia to the National Trust, were referred to the commissioners.

The householders on Sixth, between Jasper and Mackay asked for water and sewer. The petition was granted.

A petition for a six foot sidewalk on Fourteenth, north of Jasper, was granted.

City Faces Paving Proposition, and With it the Street Railway Question. Material Must be Ordered Now or Cannot be Secured For Next Year's Use

Engineer and Commissioner's Furnish Estimates

Ald. Griesbach: I move that in the opinion of this council it is desirable that Jasper avenue from Kinistino to Fourth, that Namayo from Jasper to Sutherland, and that First from Jasper to the C. N. R. should be paved, and that this resolution be referred back to the commissioners with a request for an estimate of the cost of paving this section.

For nearly a month the city engineer and the city commissioners have been figuring on estimates for street paving and a street car line. These estimates were presented to the council last night and laid on the table. The letter from the city engineer pointed out that the paving material should be ordered at once if it is to be secured in time for next year and this together with an estimate by Commissioner Pace of the cost of laying a street railway line brought directly before the council the largest municipal proposition that has yet faced Edmonton.

The city engineer's letter to the council last night made several alternate paving propositions suggesting different streets to be pave' Proposition No. 3 provided for paving:

Jasper avenue from Namayo to Tenth street, a distance of 5,500 feet, in which there woul dbe 41,200 surface yards of paving.

First street, from Jasper to the C.N.R. depot, 2,000 lineal feet, 12,000 surface yards.

Namayo, from Jasper to Sutherland, 3,000 lineal feet, 15,000 surface yards.

Total, 68,200 surface yards of pavement.

The cost of this pavement in Edmonton may be approximately estimated at $3.50 a yard or for the 68,200 yards a total outlay of $238,700.

The estimate for a street railway system also submitted by Commissioner Pace reads as follow:

Oct. 8, 1906.

REPORT OF COMMISSIONERS NO. 157.

Detailed estimate of the cost of building and operating a street railway within the boundaries of the City of Edmonton. This estimate does not provide for the purchase of any land for power buildings, car barns or terminals, as it is posible to utilize property already owned by the City for these purposes. It is also intended using the present power plant merely enlarging it where necesssary.

This estimate is based on the idea of having a double track from Kinistino Ave. to Fourth St. and a single track from Fourth to St. Catharine streets, also a belt line from the corner of Kinistino to Edmiston, west on Edmiston to First, and south on First to connection with main line on Jasper. Should it be desirable to have another line south of Jasper this line could be coupled on the double track at corner of Jasper and Fourth, along Fourth to MacKay avenue, west on MacKay to Fourteenth St. and north on Fourteenth to Jasper, the MacKay Ave. line, however, is not included in this estimate.

The total distance of single track is approximately 3 1-2 miles and of double track 4-5 miles. The estimated cost of which for material per mile is $7,840.00 or a total of $27,440.00 and of grading and track laying is $2,500 per mile or a total of $9,771.00. The estimated cost of 4-5 miles of double track is $19,977.38. Total cost of track, $57,188.38.

Equipment: 3 double trucks, 2 motor cars at $3,200, $89,600; 1 motor generator and biulding for same including installation and equipment, $19,250; 1 electric sweeper and snow plow, $5,000; terminal switches and car barns, $5,000; contingencies, 5 per cent., $4,751.90. Total $100,790.28.

This brings the total of these two estimates up to $338,490.28.

The commissioner figures on a single track on Jasper from Fourth to Tenth, whereas the city engineer figures to pave the same section.

On the other end of Jasper as well the commissioner calls for a double track between Kinistino and Namayo, whereas the engineer does not figure on paving th same section.

The engineer figures on paving Namayo, whereas the commissioner figures on a single-track car line on Kinistino.

Wood Block Paving Would Cost $3.50 per Surface Yard, Laid Down If Built as Local Improvement, Jasper Property Would Pay $9.50 per Front Foot and First Street $8. A Street Railway Would Cost $100,000.

Ald. Calhoun: "I am convinced that the carbolinium wood block, the same as they are using in Vancouver, is the proper material for paving in Edmonton, and I am willing to shoulder my share of the responsibility of ordering at once the total amount of the output of the factory that the makers will sell us; and if we are turned down by the ratepayers I am willing to assume my share of the cost of the blocks."

VERMILION NEWS.

Fair Exceeded Expectations — Town Council Takes Means for Fire Protection.

Vermilion, Oct. 16.—The second day of the fair has proved one of the most successful in the records of Vermilion. The weather has left nothing to be desired and the number attending is, if anything larger than was expected. The whole of the forenoon and part of the afternoon was occupied in judging cattle and horses. Horses were well represented and it required some careful consideration on the part of the judges in several instances to discriminate between first and second prizes. The cattle also were well bred and in good condition. In fact in every class of exhibits this was clearly noticable, nothing but the best being put forward, and yet many who know the country around here will say that the exhibits were not specially produced for show purposes, but were just the ordinary average of what is being produced in the country. One event this afternoon which caused considerable excitment was the competition for the best baby, a prize of ten dollars being given. There were nine entries in all and tthe judges were unable to come to any definite decision so divided the prizes between two of the competitors who seemed to their bachelor eyes the sweetest things going. A concert given by the English church this evening will furnish the festivities, and the people of Vermilion have every reason to congratulate themselves, as they have today been congratulated by many outsiders, on the great success of their first annual exhibition.

The Methodist church held its harvest thanksgiving on Sunday last, the church being tastefully docorated for the occasion. The sermons both morning and evening were preached by the Rev. A. R. Aldridge.

Among the visitors in town for the fair are the Hon. W. T. Finlay, Minister of Agriculture, J. B. Holden, M. P.P. and Mr. Clements the Mayor of Vegreville.

A regular meeting of the town council was held last night in the new council chamber. Present, the mayor Councillors Baker, Brown, Ryan, Cameron, Stephens and McNab. A petition from Messrs. Williams & Sosn re sidewalk was granted. Mr. McNab reported that he had interviewed the C. N. R. roadmaster and obtained a promise to have the crossing widened and the grading improved. Councillor Cameron reported that he had on his trip to Winnipeg seen some of the systems inu se for fire protection and now recommended buying 1000 feet of hose and getting permission to put in two hydrants on the pipe the C.N.R. use to fill the tank if possible. Mr. H. V. Fieldhouse, B.A.L.L.B. was appointed auditor for the ensuing year. The following accounts were read and passed:

| | |
|---|---|
| H. D. Woods, grading on hill | $211.66 |
| Richardson & Bishop, books | 10.25 |
| F. V. West, taking census and preparing voters' list ..... | 10.00 |

The remainder of the sitting was occupied in arranging for the drafting of necessary by-laws for governing the town.

POULTRY NOTES

When a rapid increase of fat is desired with a small number of chicken a very simple method is to feed with baked cornmeal with scraps of meat. For a large number of chickens, baking the corn meal is too troublesome, and it becomes necessary to make a mash, which with the meat scraps, is too heavy and a part grain ration is better.

The fattening process is merely an extension of the regular system of feeding to which the birds are accustomed, and an abrupt change is to be guarded against. The birds may not readily take to it and much time is lost.

Fattening on dry ground mixtures is possibly not to be recommended for quick work with chickens that have been fed by another system. The feeder should trust to a little more fattening food of the same kind he has been using.

FATTENING OLD HENS

If, however, one wants to fatten his old hens, the best plan is to confinequite closely and feed heavily a ration about the same as they have been getting for for a good laying ration. More corn and more meat foods may be added, but with old hens, it is not best to feedtoo heating foods, for they cannot stand it as the young stock will, and a few hens going off and dying will cut into the profits so much that it would be as well not to try to fatten. — John H. Robinson, in First Lessons in Poultry-keeping.

ALBERTA MINISTER PRAISED

At every show in his own province Minister of Agriculture Findlay is to be found. At one show they had a special badge prinst for him bearing the words, Minister of Agriculture. It may be hard work but it isn't a bad scheme for the Minister of Agriculture to travel round to the country fairs. Others in high positions, might follow the example. We tell with more confidence the facts that we have seen and felt; a thorough knowledge of the country is invaluable to any in such a position. Mr. Findlay has a pretty good idea where the money comes from; he has made up his mind to see where it goes to. Its a good scheme. We give a glad "Hear! "Hear!"

Caron Enterprise.—Up to date there has been some 208,000 bushels of wheat marketed at the Caron elevators. This is more than half the amount marketed all last season and the elevators have only been open a short time. With four or five months more to run it can safely be said that this year's total for this district will come close to the enterprise prediction that close to 600,000 bushels would be marketed here this season.

Prince Albert Times.—By all odds the biggest wheat yield from a large area of land in the Rosthern district has just come to light. Ten thousand three hundred and fifty bushels from two hundred and fifty acres is the immense crop threshed by F. W. Henschell, one of Rosthern's biggest farmers. This is an average of forty-five bushels an acre. The grain will most likely grade 1 Northern. Altogether Mr. Henschell had seventeen thousand bushels of wheat, and on his whole crop had an excellent average of 29 bushels.

MUSICALE.

A musicale was given in aid of Grace church last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stutchbury, Syndicate avenue. About sixty were present and a most enjoyable time was spent. Refreshments were served and a program of music and readings given Among the contributors to the program were Miss Patterson who sang two numbers in a most effective manner. Miss Patterson is the possessor of a soprano voice of very fine quality which she uses to great advantage. Miss Cohoon gave several much appreciated readings. The little Misses McCrimmon gave some very clever mandolin duets Miss Eva Scythes a recent acquisition to Edmonton's musical talent sang two numbers and was called on to respond to each. Miss Scythes has a voice of exquisite quality and a power of expression such as is seldom heard. The Grace church quartette and Mr. Stutchbury also contributed in their usual good form to the musical program. Miss Clarke was the accompanist.

INTERMEDIATE HOCKEY.

A meeting of the Edmonton Intermediate Hockey club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the offices of the Mason & Risch Piano Co., on Second street. All those intending to join the club are cordially invited to be present.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CONCERT.

Harold Jarvis, the famous Canadian tenor, appears in the Thistle rink on Friday, October 19, and Thursday, the evening of Thanksgiving day under the auspices of the public schools. Mr. Jarvis requires no introduction as he is known everywhere both in Canada and the United States. He is possibly the best singer of Scottish ballads in Canada. He has a magnificent physique and fine presence, while his powerful, sympathetic and resonant voice stirs the blood and thrills to the highest pitch of emotion. To hear him sing "Scots Wha' Hae" is never to forget the singer or the song.

He is supported by Mr. Wallace Graham, of Brandon, a young elocutionist and reader that comes warmly commended by the western press. He is teacher of elocution in the college at Brandon. Of him the Free Press says "Brandon is fortunate in possessing an elocutionist of hi s ability, and any time the Wheat City is willing to part with him there will be a warm welcome for him in Winnipeg."

WANT NINE-HOUR DAY.

The journeymen blacksmiths of Edmonton have made a demand on the master blacksmiths for a nine-hour day and a regulation scale of wages covering the entire city, which demand so far has not been accedeed to by the master blacksmiths, but a compromise offer has been made.

The journeymen demand a nine hour day from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. with a scale of $3.25 for firemen, $3.00 for floormen and $2.25 for helpers.

The masters are willing to grant the nine-hour day providing it commences at 8 a. m. and finishes at 6 o'clock. They offer to pay a minimum of $3 for firemen, $2.75 for floormen, and $2.00 for helpers.

The masters state that tthis is only the minimum; that the bettter mechanics are already getting better wages than the scale they offer to pay, but that there are many mechanics to whom they could not pay the top price.

A committee from the journeymen and masterss met on Friday night when the demands were submitted.

On Monday evening the journeymen met and decided to stay by their demands, which they ask to be granted on November 1st.

On Tuesday the masters met and decided not to go beyond their compromise offer.

Both sides state that tthey do not anticipate a strike, and that the matter will be amicably adjusted.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S PLIGHT

Again Great Britain has negotiated an agreement with the United States in settlement of a dispute between the latter country and a British colony and again the colony cries out that its interests have been sacrificed.

This time the disappointed party is Newfoundland and the cause of the trouble the "modus vivendi" relative to the Newfoundland fisheries. The modus vivendi is, the outcome of a protest made by the United States against certain laws passed by the Newfoundland government in defiance, it is alleged, of the treaaty rights of American fishermen.

Under it the British Government agrees for Newfoundland not to interfere with the use of purse seines by American fishermen. Newfoundland passed a law prohibiting such seines, which the United States fishermen claim are necessary.

Another law passed by Newfoundland, which it is agreed will not be enforced is that forbidding the shipping of Newfoundland sailors and fishermen by American fishing schooners.

The United States agrees not to fish on Sunday, to pay light dues, and when practicable to report to the custom houses when they go on the fishing-grounds. The American fishermen claim that often ice prevents them from reporting to the custom houses, and this, according to the modus, is regarded as a valid excuse. The American Government recognizes the right of Newfoundland to require that the fishermen shall report to the custom houses so that the Newfoundland authorities may know what fishing vessels are on the grounds.

Against this agreement many prominent Islanders have registered their most strenuous objections, and the government of the country has been reported as on the eve of resigning. According to the Americans however, the majority of the Islanders themselves are in no such frame of mind, and desired the restrictive laws set aside in order that Newfoundland sailors and fishermen might continue to find employment on the American fishing vessels. If this be the case the resignation of Premier Bond and his colleagues would be far less a protest against oppression than a highly appropriate acknowledgement of popular disfavor.

However this may be, the protests against the agreement have borne the usual fruit in a volley of articles in the British press advising Newfoundland on divers and sundry matters.

The Morning Post points to the moral of the reported result. If it transpires that Newfoundland interests have been separated from British North America as a whole, the fact will deserve the serious consideration of the islanders. Their "responsible" government would be really irresponsible in the last resort, because dependent on imperial authority. The natural logical destiny is to join the Dominion, then urge the formation of a Canadian squadron. Isolated Newfoundland has no prospect of ever equipping herself with a material defensive force, in default of which no British government will ever incur serious risks for her claims, however legitimate in the abstract.

The Statist says, "It would be monstrous if ever a serious quarrel were allowed to spring up between this country and our American kinsmen because of the Newfoundland fisheries. It would be better, infinitely better, to bear the cost of whatever damage may be inflicted upon Newfoundland, than to run the risk of a serious quarrel. The arrangement respecting Behring Straits caused utter disappointment and in fact almost every act of the home government touching the colonies, does give more or less dissatisfaction. It is not surprising that this should be so for the colonies have not the due representation in the negotiations they ought to have.

The Saturday Review concludes a long article by saying, "We imagine that some of the public men of Newfoundland do not realize the sanctity of treaties, or the gravity of repudiating them, and they would be better colonial statesmen if brought within the educative influence of an imperial council. Pending the formation of such a body Newfoundland would consult her interests by seeking admission into the Dominion, though we fear the time is not yet ripe, and that insular patriotism is still too strong for that step yet."

The Spectator, referring to the Romman Catholic archbishop of St. Johns' remarks, says, "The government were quite right to arrange the modus vivendi. It would be impossible for the whole empire to go to war with the United States over a small fisheries. The responsibility of a dispute thus provoked would fall neither upon us nor Newfoundland, owing to our immense preponderance at sea, but upon Canadians."

"The Broad Arrow says, "Without force behind it diplomacy is an instrument which has no edge, and Newfoundland being a small island is therefore unable to bring pressure to bear on the colonial office That is to say the present situation involves the question of high policy and defence. There is no hope for the future of Newfoundland. As a unit she must round off the British North American confederation by throwing in her lot with Canada or see her interests sacrificed to the United States'"

The gist of this admonition is that Newfoundland's interests would be better protected if she were part of the Dominion than is possible while she remains a weak and isolated colony. But however advisable annexation may be from an imperial standpoint, it forms no part of the Newfoundlanders' program at present and he is likely to reply that even Canada has not been conspicuously successful in securing her desires in Anglo-American agreements. So far as the control of the fisheries are concerned, however, Canada's rights are settled and settled satisfactorily, and it may be that the cause of Newfoundland's umbrage at the Imperial government may be also the cause of a clearer recognition of what the colony stands to gain from allying herself with the Dominion.

THE CHIEF TALKS.

Calgary Albertan.—"Calgary, according to reportss that have been published in the course of the past few days, is infested and hounded down by a gang of gamblers, confidence men, thieves and almost every kind of criminals in the category of criminology. This is uncalled for and damanable lie. The records of our police department at the present time will show, and I am prepared to prove that there is not at the present time such a thing a professional gambling rooms in the city." Thus spoke Chief English to a representative of the Albertan yesterday.

Commenting further on the subject, the chief said, "In the annals of the world's history there has never been a city where card playing has been entirely eliminated.

"All the trouble in connection with this gambling affair that has occurred within the borders of our city has been occasioned by what is termed confidence men. This class of criminals is likely to drop into any city and fleece the unwary. It is impossible to detect these men the moment they arrive in the city for the reason that they are well dressed, clever men. They have not got time to stay in the city very long and they do not as a general rule make a habit of frequenting professional gambling rooms or mixing with a known town gambler. They are not looking for small stakes, the are after the big money, and either get it in a short time or move to other territory. In either case with them it is here today and gone tomorrow. This man Murphy, about whom so much has been said recently was an utter stranger to me until he was brought to the police station. One of our hard problems in capturing the men of this ilk, is that they generally mix with prominent people and after they have fleeced a man of this nature there is seldom a report made to the police department for the reason that they do not wish to derive the notoriety from it that is due them. This is known to the con man and for this reason he makes a specialty of prominent men to work upon. Occasionally, however, an easy victim becomes his prey, and while he does not exactly care to have anything to do with what he terms the "green pea" that is to their mind the man that is likely to make a holler, the temptation is so strong that he cannot resist it. The lamb is shorn of its wool, the holler is made later on, and then the newspapers rise up with a hue and cry denouncing the town and making the outside world think that Calgary, or any other town in which a like episode occurs, is owned body and soul by criminals of every type."

OFFICIAL TIME INSPECTOR C. N. R.

Would $25.00 Buy You a New Jacket?

THAT would pay for a pretty good coat, wouldn't it, Mrs. Housekeeper?

Yet you may be actually throwing away that much money every year—by using the ordinary steel range.

Partly because of the material it is made of, and partly because of its construction.

Steel can be riveted to steel, but on account of the expansion and contraction of heat and cold, the seams between the rivets will open up, and let in the outside air.

The oven in a range of this sort is usually flanged over and riveted, and the seams plastered with stove putty.

Soon the putty dries up and drops out, the cracks suck in cold air, and you are kept busy shoveling in coal to make fire hot enough to off-set the the "air leaks."

Then the door-frames on such a range are cast-iron. And because cast-iron is too brittle to stand the hammering that riveting demands, these frames are bolted—and the joints filled with stove putty.

The bolts loosen and these joints, too, open up, and more cold air comes in to cause the fire to burn slowly when you want it quick, and to keep it roaring when you want it shut off.

So you can easily see how much more a steel and cast-iron range costs you.

And it becomes more expensive every year you use it.

Now, if you want to save that extra money wasted in coal, Mrs. Housekeeper—

If you want to do your cooking economically and satisfactorily—buy a Monarch Range.

For the Monarch will not open up in the seams and waste fuel.

It is made of Wellsville polished steel and Malleable iron.

The advantage Malleable Iron has is that it can be cold riveted to steel without the use of stove putty to make air-tight joints.

So all the frames in the Monarch are made of Malleable Iron—around the Oven Door, Ash Door, Pouch Feed Door, etc. The steel sides are riveted solidly and tightly to Malleable Iron Frames, which make a solid base, unaffected by heat or cold.

Now, this air-tight construction makes air-leaks impossible in the Monarch, hence it saves you $20 to $30 every year and will be doing good service long after the loose-jointed steel range has been sent to the scrap-heap.

We can show you many other features about the Monarch—the Duplex Draft which lets in air at both ends of the fire-box, ensuring even cooking — the Contact Reservoir which heats water quickly—the Malleable Iron top which requires no blacking to keep clean, etc., all of which are exclusive with the Monarch. It is well worth an hour of your time to examine this range.

Monarch MALLEABLE The 'Stay Satisfactory' Range

A $1.00 Cook Book Free

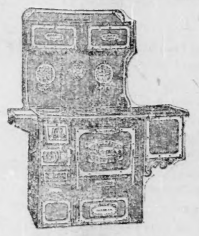

The Monarch Cook Book, written by Mrs. Helen Mar Thomson, an acknowledged authority on domestic science is a Real Book, not a cheap circular, 144 pages bound in cloth on board covers—a book that would cost $1.00 at the book stores.

It contains 500 recipes, many of them new, all simple, easy to make and inexpensive.

Has practical menus for the whole year and many valuable hints on diet and marketing.

You can get it without cost if you intend buying a range or cook stove within a year.

Canada and Italy At Present Do Less Than a Million Dollars Worth of Business Yearly--Articles In Which Business Could Be Done.

Winnipeg Free Press.—One of Italy's chief imports is wheat. The official calculation of the Italian government is that 65,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat will come into Italy this year and he prospects are that not one bushel of this will come from Canada. Between 25 and 30 million bushels of hard rice wheat will come from Odessa on the Black Sea; some five million bushels from the Argentine Republic, possibly a million bushels of durum wheat from the United States, and the rest from wheat growing regions in Southern Europe and Northern Africa. This wheat will bring about a dollar a bushel after the duty of 40c a bushel is paid. The price at Genoa is therefore pretty much what it is at Liverpool; and given better shipping facilities it might be possible to find a market in Italy for considerable quantities of Canadian wheat which is much superior in milling qualities to anything which is offered here.

Then there is coal. Italy is becoming a great manufacturing country and her consumption of coal is increasing year by year. There are no coal mines in Italy; nor in any of the countries adjacent; and all that is used has to be brought by ship to the seaports of the country. Hydro-electric power is being developed to the capacity of the water powers, and there are considerable installations throughout Northern Italy. In the neighborhood of Milant here has been a development of some 40,000 h.p. which is all absorbed in the industrial enterprises of Lombardy and many small mills and factories placed along the streams are operated by water power direct. Only a limited amount of power, however, can be obtained either directly or indirectly from water, and the country is under the necessity of importing immense quantities of coal every year. Last year Italy's coal bill amounted to million dollars. Ninety per cent of this was from Great Britain. Welsh coal commends a good premium. Quotations at Genoa on a recent date show that the highest price which was paid was 31.50 francs per metric ton for Cambrian coal, while inferior British coals were from 5 to 6 francs a ton less. Austria supplies about one-sixth the demands and Germany a lesser amount. A certain amount of United States soft coal reaches Italy every year. In the last year for which detailed government figures are available, the United States coal imported was valued at one million dollars. There seems to be a considerable market in Italy for coal and the mines of the Maritime Provinces, considering their nearness to the sea ,should be able to put coal into Genoa harbor as cheaply as their Pennsylvania competitors.

With an eye on these possibilities, the Canadian government has made its display of Canadian coal at the exposition an elaborate one. This consists chiefly of huge blocks, and these are so grouped about one of the entrance doors as to compel the attention of all who visit the Canadian pavilion. Merchants and manufacturers have been attracted by this display, and the officials in charge have been called upon frequently to give information as to the cost, quality and availability of the Canadian article. All the large Canadian mines—those in the Nanaimo, Crow's Nest, Springhill and Sydney districts—are represented in the exhibits. The government of Italy which took over all the railways in the kingdom last May, and is now operating them, is the largest buyer of coal in the country, and particulars as to the suitability of Canadian coal for railway purposes will be laid by the Canadian commissioners at the exhibition before the government officials who have the railways in their charge.

Another very large order which it is to give is for raw tobacco, nearly four million dollars worth of which is annually imported. This is practically all supplied by the United States. Tobacco is a state monopoly in Italy and the cultivation of the tobacco plant by private parties is forbidden under penalty of a very heavy fine. The Canadian exhibit includes a good display of tobacco leaf from Essex, Ont., and the tobacco growing countries along the St. Lawrence. The explanatory placard which accompanies the exhibit gives the information that in 1901 there were 11,960 acres sown to tobacco in Canada from which were raised eleven million two hundred and sixty-six thousand seven hundred and thirty-three pounds of leaf tobacco. "The Canadian government,' says the placard, imposes no restriction on the farmer either for the growing or sale of his tobacco. Everyone is free in Canada to manufacture tobacco to his own use." This statement inclines the Italian farmer to believe that Canada is a land of the utmost liberty; because he knows that the growing of even a single tobacco plant in his garden, though merely as a curiosity, would render him liable to a fine of $500. The Italian government maintains its tobacco and salt monopolies by the most rigid police precautions and infractions of them are mercilessly punished. As showing how unrelaxing the government is in this regard, those who live near the sea are prohibited from obtaining salt for their own use by evaporating the sea water, and there are guards stationed along the shore to prevent this contraband commerce. Tobacco is sold with postage stamps in small government bureaus usually in charge of old soldiers, and it yields the gocernment a revenue of some forty million dollars yearly. At present the virtuts of tobac Canadien are unknown to those who buy tobacco leaf for the government factories; but one of the Canadian commissioners at the exhibition who comes from Essex county appears to think that there is nothing to prevent business being done in this line except a prejudice which might be dissipated by some missionary work.

Itally buys ten million dollars worth of fish yearly. Most of this is dried fish and Canada could supply a much larger quantity than the $112,000 worth of cod fish and the sixteen hundred dollars' worth of pickled herring which were received in this country from Canada last year. It is likely that considerable qualntities of Canadian dried fish reach Italy through other markets; and if these were placed direct the extra profits would go to the Canadian fish merchants in place of the foreign middleman. Canada's fish exports last year ran over eleven million dollars. Italy's imports were a million dollars less than this amount. The figures suggest that Canada should be able to increase her fish exports to Italy from their present modest total of $113,743.

FOSTER'S FORECAST.

Washington, D.C. Oct. 13—Last bulletin gave forecast of disturbance to cross the continent 14 to 18, warm wave 13 to 17, cool wave 16 to 20. Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 19, cross west of Rockies country by close of 20, great central valleys 21 to 23, eastern states. 24. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 19, great central valleys 21, eastern states 23. Cool wave will cross west Rockies country about 22, great central valley 24, eastern states 26.

This disturbance will be preceded by very cool weather, one of the most severe cool waves of the month, and followed by a cool wave almost as severe. Between these two cool waves will come a great rise in temperatures. Altogether the temperatures of this disturbance will average lower than usual.

Rainfall accompanying these temperature changes will not be great and comparatively quiet weather will prevail. No severe storms are expected at that time. The most radical feature will be the frosts, 18 to 20, which will go farther south than usual.

Following Oct. 13 trend of temperatures will be very much downward, more than the season would suggest, and precipitation will be above average of the month. Otherwise quiet weather will prevail.

I will again give warning of exceedingly severe weather from about middle of November to end of December. It will be a bad time for corn gathering and cotton picking. Farmers and planters will lose heavily by permitting their corn and cotton to remain in the field after November 15 and range cattle will suffer where shelter is not provided.

During the six weeks of unusual disturbances the earth's magnetic system will be much unbalanced. the Earth will be on one side of the sun and including the latter, the six will be in conjunction or nearly in line.

Not only bad weather for crops and live stock may be expected but particularly severe winter storms not for from Nov. 17 and 30 and Dec. 14 and 28.

CUBAN BANKERS FOLLOW SUIT.

New York, Oct. 12.—No definite clue as to the whereabouts of Manuel Silveira, the Cuban who absconded in his owns teamer with $1,000,000 belonging to J. M. Ceballos & Co., of this city, which precipitated the assignment of the firm, has been gained. Speculation has been rife, however, as to his destination, and the gues which gains the most belief is that he has gone to Venezuela, it is stated that Silveira is a close friend of President Castro of Venezuela and from this it is argued that he will putintoa Venezuelan port ,and use the friendship of Castro as a protection against arrest. Inquiry among the most influential houses connected with Cuban affairs failed to discover any disposition to regard the failure as indicative of any general commercial or financial weakness in the island. The most general idea expressed was that the firm had itself become over extended as a result of a participation in enterprises beyond the capacity of its own capital. These in investments had been quite large in Cuba, and the recent revolutionary developments there had been too great a strain .

So far as the defalcation of Manuel Silveira was concerned it seems to be agreed that the intervention by the United States government had upset some very ambitious plans in that direction. What these plans were is not known, but they were supposed to be connected with the success of the revolutionists.

The exact means employed by Silviera in obtaining the money which he is said to have embezzled was explainedy esterday by Attorney William Nelson Cromwell. Ceballos & Company was one of the best of several concerns which speculated heavily in the pay warrants of the Cuban revolutionary soldiers. These warrants, issued by a commission in different parts of the island to the men who had fought in the revolution were freely discounted by their holders about four years ago. Because of the delay of the governments negotiations for a loan their warrants were sold to speculators at from 20 to 50 per cent. of their face value. Ceballoss & Company bought up about $2,000,000 of the warrants. Of this amount $1,000,000 worth of the papers were sent to Silveira for collection while the balance was deposited with the treasury department in Havana. The Cuban loan was finally arranged through Speyor & Company, and payment of the warrants was made. While no statement of the condition of the affairs of the firm will be ready for several days, it is understood that a number of papers of banking houses in New York have quite large amounts of Ceballos' paper, most of it well secured, however, by collateral.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

Since the beginning of the present year the Dominion department of Agriculture under the leadership of the Dominion Dairy Commisioner has organized and conducted sixteen cow testing cations in the best dairy sections of Eastern Canada.

The results show that there is nothing in experimental work is better calculated to increase the profits and improve the methods of conducting the dairy industry. In order to serve the purpose properly the record must be continous and regular ad followedn by intelligent action in the mater of selection and breeding their bbest types.

The records show that the average yield of milk inO ntario and Quebec is 3300 lbs of milk per annum per cow, yet there are several hrrds that yield 5300 0lbs of milk per cow per annum. In every case where the average is high the rpLoduction has resulted from such methods as the cow testing associations obbserve and suggest.

MERCHANT TAILORS ARE ALARMED

At the Progress Made by Semi-Ready Tailoring.

The Company Have Now 69 Semi-Ready Wardrobes in Canada, Where There Were But Three Eight Years Ago.

Referring to the progress made by the new art of men's tailoring a New York journal recently prophesied that in a few years the old-time journeyman tailor would be as scarce as a brevier compositor in a daily newspaper office. Semi-Ready tailoring has made such strides in recent years that the tailoring journals are advising organization and action on the part of merchant tailors to combat the new idea. In bold type the National Fashion Bulletin recently issued "Confidential Circular No. 1," to the custom tailors, and quoted a prominent speaker at a merchant tailors' banquet, who said:

"Unless we combat the Semi-Ready houses our profession will in a few years be in the same condition as the custom shoe trade is now. A few will pay big prices for custom-made. The rest will wear Semi-Ready."

***

The strides made by the Semi-Ready tailoring in Canada have been remarkable. In Toronto recently two new Semi-Ready Wardrobes were opened, Ed. Mack, one of the prominent merchant tailors, having secured the agency. In Montreal, three new Semi-Ready agencies were opened. A. M. Campbell, a manager of the Merchants' Bank, joined forces with R. C. McLean, a merchant tailor. The third was opened by F. X. Bourduae, a merchant tailor, who has been in business for nineteen years.

From three wardrobes in 1893, the Semi-Ready Company announce in their new booklet, just published, entitled "Manners and Modes for Men," that there are 69 Semi-Ready Wardrobes in Canada.

The Winnipeg house of the Semi-Ready Company, is to be in charge of William T. Peace, who for fifteen years conducted the most prosperous and high-class custom tailoring business in that city.

In every town and city the Semi-Ready Company seem to have no difficulty in getting the best agencies. While a merchant tailoring experience is not absolutely essential, the system upon which Semi-Ready tailoring is based appeals more strongly to a man of practical experience. A practical tailor grasps the idea at once. Kelly & Moore will show the real Semi-Ready label to anyone. It is on the inside pocket of the coat, trousers and overcoat.

Oxford Hot Water Boiler

The diameter of the fire-pot is greater at the top than at the bottom, preventing an accumulation of ashes around the most active part of the boiler.

The triangular revolving grate is hollow, allowing immense air space without permitting live coals to drop through. Dead ashes, clinkers, etc., are sharply cut off by a turn of the grate. The whole contents of the grate are dumped by a few extra turns.

The Han Kow Disaster

Hong Kong, Oct. 14.—The steamer Han Kow, which was burned today, carried 2,000 Chinese passengers, men women and children; and seven Europeans, and a cargo including 800 bales o fmatting 560 bales of raw silk, and 400 bales waste silk. The vessel arrived from Canton at three o'clock this morning and was shortly afterwards moored at the wharf.

The chief officer reported to Capt. Branch that the ship was afire. The captain then directed the chief engineer to turn on the water through the fire hose This was impossible for the reason that within five minutes after the alarm, the Han Kow was ablaze, fore and aft. Captain Branch then awakened the European passengers, who rushed down the gangway, the ladies in their night clothes. The crew was compelled to leave the ship, which by this time was a veritable furnace.

The Chinese steerage passengers were thrown into a frightful panic. Horrifying shrieks and cries to save their lives were heard, but it was impossible owing to the inflammable cargo Hundreds were burned to death and many others jumped overboard into the harbor and were drowned. Responding to signals the British cruiser Flora and the naval dock yard despatched engines and assistance.

The land floating brigades of firemen made herculean efforts to extinguish the flames, which leaped to a height of over sixty feet. The British steamer Powan, which was at the same wharf, was towed out to save her from destruction. A neighboring pier 100 yards distant was burned to the water's edge. Governor Nathal, accompanied by his aide de camp, arrived at the scene at 4.15 a. m. Governor Nathal suggested scuttling the ship, but the suggestion was declared to be impracticable. The fire was brought under control at 6 a. m., by which time only the shell and hull of the Han Kow remained .The work of recovering the dead was then begun. Already seventy-five corpses have been recovered.

Many o fthem were huddled together and only singed, while others were incinerated beyond recognition. Of the cargo, 200 bales of raw silk were saved, but badly damaged by water. The remainder was totally destroyed. There are many theories as to the cause of the fire. The first is that the fire was caused by the overturning of the lantern of a Chinese boarding house runner, who came aboard seeking customers. The second was an opium smoker accidentally set fire to the matting. The third is thatt it was caused by the crossing of an electric wire. The fourth theory is one that is considered the most probable that the fire was incendiary, and was an outgrowth of a boycott against British river boats.

Building the G.T.P.

Portage la Prairie, Oct. 12.— Westward, Ho! is the cry of the steel laying garg on the Grand Trunk Pacific west of town, and their journey in the direction of the setting sun is daily being lessened to the extent of about two miles. All the departments of the many required to precede the iron horse are being urged on to their utmost capacity in order to cover as much distance as possible before winter sets in upon the ground and makes further operations impossible.

The visitor to the yards west of town would scarcely recognize the spot as the one he had been upon a month before, so changed is its appearance. Now the extensive buildings which the Grand Trunk is erecting at this point are beginning to take shape. One of the engine houses and a blacksmith shop are completed and a 100 x 35 foot frame workshop is well under way. The former are commodious buildings, and well suited to the purposes for which they are intended, and the latter, which will be equipped with everything necessary to modern carpenters' and mechanics' shops, will be commissioned as a repairing department, and one end of it will be fitted up for use as a storeroom for telegraph supplies.

It is seldom that a better equipped construction train is sent out by a railway company than that now operating west of here. It consists of about fifty dining and sleeping cars, four official and three foremen's cars, and a couple of tool wagons. This was the actual outfit, but in addition there are also some three hundred flat cars for use in carrying gravel, steel, etc. Then there is a Number 1 locomotive and a huge steam shovel, which, however, has not yet been put into use. The gravel put is in the vicinity of the camp and it is intended next spring to use the steam shovel to load the flat cars with ballasting material.

The staff engaged in connection with the construction train is above the average, both in numbers and in quality. There are some 100 men employed directly in the yards, such as mechanics, carpenters, telegraph men, etc., and between one hundred and twenty-five and one hundred and fifty on the steel laying garg. All are competent workmen in their respective lines of occupation and the working conditions are such that the contractors experience no difficulty in keeping the gangs up to the required numerical standard. In fact it has been stated that since the harvesting operations of the district have ended the supply has been greater than the demand and consequently the contractors have been able to make selections.

Up to date about thirty miles of track have been laid. In a few days it is expected to cut the C.P.R. Brookdale branch, and the engineer in charge confidently anticipates having at least 100 miles of track laid before freeze up. This work now makes progress at the rate of about two miles a day, and this speed will be maintained until operations cease for the year. In the early spring, a big addition will be made both to the construction outfit and the number of men employed and steel laying work will be pushed on at about four miles per diem.

Besides the buildings before mentioned there is also assembled in the yard area an immense quantity of telegraph poles, rails and other necessities to construction. It is computed that there is at present on the ground enough telegraph material and steel to cover about 400 miles of railway but considerable trouble has been experienced in getting a sufficient quantity of ties, and the supply is running short.

There is also gathered on the yard tracks a considerable quantity of the company's rolling stock — passenger coaches, box cars and flat cars—and more are expected shortly.

As recently recorded in these columns, the first pole for use in what the G. T. P. officials prophesy will be the greatest te'egraph system from ocean to ocean, was erected near the spot where the first rail was laid. It now stands in company with many others, but is still conspicuous by its festal decorations — the Union Jack floating proudly from its top.

A vigorous activity will be inaugurated along the grade as soon as the weather breaks up next year — every department of construction will be fully and efficiently manned, and the line pushed on to Edmonton with all speed. In fact it is hoped and anticipated that a goodly proportion of next season's crop will be carried out of western Canada on the roadbed of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

A NEW NATION IN THE ORIENT.

(Toronto Globe)

Western people have marvelled at the sudden emergence of Japan into world-significance, and at the figure that island nation is likely to cut in world-politics. But not many even of those who keep pace with Japan's leaps into front-rank prominence were prepared to be told that in no three years of Japan's whole history did events crowd so startlingly and the old order change so radically as during the past three years in China. That China has withstood change from without for more than four thousand years, and that for more than 1,200 years has known no change from within has passed away forever. In one twelvemonth the whole face of life has been transformed, and, unawares, while the people of Britain and America thought of China as humiliated by Japan, but still helpless and mummied in its age-long conservatism, there has sprung into life a new nation that must be reckoned with forever after in the politics and commerce and civilization of the world.

China's haughty pride was first humbled in 1894, when Japan defeated her army and took from her Formosa. But that humiliation was the first beginning of China's reconstruction. Her leading Viceroy then declared for a new system of education and a new military organization That was a cry in the night. In 1898 the radical enthusiasm of the young emperor was chilled by the empress-dowager, and the dawn was not yet. Then came the Boxer movement, a wild and undisciplined expression of the spirit of reform. But because of it China was again humiliated, and the hands were put back on face of the clock. But when Japan defeated Russia, China was not dull nor unconcerned. She learned the secret of Japan's strength, and in that moment of her victor's triumph China found the clue to her own emancipation. The new day had broken out on a new China.

Education was the instrument her great statesmen choose to save the nation. Not by slow degrees, but immediately ,at one stroke, the entire educational system, that had stood unchanged for 1,200 years and was the pride of 437,000,000 of people, was wiped out. That revolution, so bold, so startling, so far-reaching as to be beyond the comprehension of the Western mind, will make September, 1905, forever memorable in the world's history. More than three millions of candidates for their great examinations by that one stroke saw all their hopes of official position and power vanish. But without complaint or murmur the edict was accepted, and China started on the road by which Japan and the Western nations came to power.

In one year schools and colleges by the thousand have sprung into activity in the north and in the south. Old Buddhist temples and monasteries are being confiscated by the Chinese government and transformed into schools and colleges, their idols by the hundred being burned in the open squares, and their lands devoted to educational purposes. The army is being reorganized in accordance with the most approved principles of the military schools of Japan and the west. Western ideas are being absorbed even in the most conservative circles. Railways, telegraphs, telephones, newspapers, and the distinctive features of Western life are found in the foremost provinces of China. Buddhism is repudiated, and Taoism is discredited, and Christianity is approved by the Viceroy. The dowager herself leads in the new reform

All this the story of one year in China has a meaning for the nations in the West. The churches must see in it something of the harvest of that toilsome sowing that Robert Morrison began just ninety-nine years ago, and that has been carried on by the missions and schools and colportage work of long and weary years. But the commerce and the politics of the west must also take large account of the new China. As western ideas make headway and western customs are adopted there will come a rapidly increasing demand for western goods. The produce of Canadian farms, and the output of Canadian factories and foundries will find large markets beyond the Pacific. And presently there will be in the far east a power, led by trained intelligence and with unmatched resources at command, which no other nation in the east or in the west can afford to ignore in their trade or treat slightingly in their politics. There has come a new China

SHERRING THE MARATHON WINNER

& ZAM-BUK'S HEALING POWER.

William Sherring, of Hamilton, Canada's hero, the winner of the Marathon Race, trained on Zam-Buk and has proved its merits. He says:

"While training for my great run from Marathon to Athens, a distance of 26 miles, I used Zam-Buk and it proved a great boon to me. I have used it both as an embrocation and as a salve for chafing sores, bruises caused by stepping on to stones while running in light shoes, and other bruises and have found it the best salve and ointment I have ever tried. Its healing powers are exceptional, and for general household use it should be a wonderfully fine curative. I have pleasure in expressing my appreciation of its value."

Zam-Buk is a healing balm composed of the finest known medicinal herbal extracts. It acts as a skin food, and rejuvenates all diseased or injured tissue—rebuilds unsound skin, etc., just as a builder rebuilds a damaged building. The most delicate skin—the skin of young babies can absorb it. No staining, no harmful coloring matter, no mineral poisons. Pure nature applied to nature's ills.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH OF WESTERN TOWNS.

(From "Canada.")

"Is there anything new, I wonder, to tell of Edmonton, the northern Mecca; Edmonton, the much-discussed, the provincial capital, the new railway centre that checks off on its fingers three transcontinental lines as its feeders, and tells you brightly that it does not know how many more to expect?" says Miss Katharine Hughes in an article appearing in several Canadian papers.

"All roads in the West lead to Edmonton. And along all of them capitalists are hurrying to what promises to be an Eldorado of grain and live stock. One man I met was going to see how best to invest $2,000,000. Wheat lands seemed to draw him most, for he was an Iowa man and knew something of the money there is in wheat."

Mr. Arthur Leigh, of London, expects thousands of a good class of farmers from Great Britain—"if the Americans do not get in before us."

It is not to be wondered at that Edmonton has awakened to find herself famous, that having increased her population to five times what it was four years ago, and with people still streaming in, the city is too busy to count her inhabitants and decide whether she has really 12,000 or 15,000. The Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern run seven trains daily into this bustling city; ten years ago it was only a trading post. The hotels simply cannot accommodate people, so these accommodate themselves to tents, while the hotels, numbering over a dozen, do the best they can with the crowds.

Just as in Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, and other points, the need is felt here to utilize, as one business man said, "Our cattle and hog products at home instead of shipping them east to Chicago and St. Paul, then paying duty and freight back on them again." Other manufacturers are coming—though this should be the golden time for packing-houses to rise in Canada. As Sheriff Robertson, on old resident, said: "We now ship flour or wheat east and they ship us biscuits made from it. That won't last."

Already Edmonton is the distributing centre to a score of hamlets, villages and towns. Strathcona, across the river, is a lively town with big mills, packing-houses, and brewery. Lacombe, with its spur line of railroad opening up a new country, is growing wonderfully. Vermilion has not only a fine agricultural district to develop, but is a divisional point on the C.N.R., a fact which ensures to it a certain and considerable amount of trade.

One smiles in remembering that this marvellous Edmonton, that Calgary of gigantic aspirations, and Lethbridge of sunny days and people—these are but the newest outpost of empire in this country of the twentieth century. Yet did not someone sometime say in blissful ignorance that this whole Canada was a small thing to lose—merely "a few arpents of snow"?

Dealing with the towns in Saskatchewan, Miss Hughes says:

The city of Regina is marvellously altered from the days when it was represented in parliament by the eloquent Davin. His former paper is now occupying large new offices befitting this new city, which has grown in five years from 2,645 to 9,500. The Regina of last century is being improved out of recollection. Some idea of the change from the old village-town may be had in these facts supplied by Commissioner Arthur Boyle.

About $500,000 is being spent by the civic authorities on street-paving and granolithic walks; the city hall now under construction will cost $150,000 and the, new school nearing completion costs $60,000. In 1905 building permits amonted to $479,403. This year that amount has already been exceeded.

Regina, with ten passenger trains entering it daily on different roads, hopes to become a veritable railway centre soon. It is growing at its present truly Western rate, because it is now the wholesale and distributing centre for the very rich farming district about. Homestead entries are increasing yearly, 4,874 being made in the first five months of this year. The average yield of hard wheat in the district last year was 27 bushels per acre; of oats, 35. The Pope farm, a few miles from the city, was bought eight years ago at $8 an acre. The owner, who mortgaged the land to buy it, refused an offer of $100 per acre recently. Their farmhouse is really a pretty suburban home, with every comfort. And now with the leisure of assured prosperity, Mrs. Pope finds time to attend luncheons and bridge parties in the town. Certainly the women I met at the Government House reception later looked as though they enjoyed life and found plenty of amousement.

I visited another farm close by belonging to the Marshalls, formerly of Renfrew county, and for ten years resident in Nebraska. They invested $6,500 here four years ago; today their farm is worth over $25,000, with the value increasing rapidly. Last year their wheat lands averaged forty-two bushels an acre, while Mrs. Marshall, the blithest little woman imaginable, and notably happy in her prairie life, finds excellent profits in her poultry-yard.

Speaking last night of his drive to Riviere Qui Barre, Mr. Spalding said: "I have seen today a fine stretch of land which will some day be all waving fields of golden grain; I am greatly impressed with the country around Edmonton. The city has a great future. The coal deposits will be developed in due course and the opportunity for diversified farming in this district assures me of this being the right spot for our hardy Scots to settle. JOHN AND FLORENCE PRINGLE
In "The Foxy Tramp."

"THE BASHFUL LOVER."

A large house greeted the Pringle company last night at the Edmonton theatre in their presentation of "A Bashful Lover." Johnnie Pringle as Captain Waller Maidenblush took the leading part and played successfully making some clever hits. Florence Pringle as Gertrude gave a good representation of an unsophisticated young woman whose only desire is to make her parents happy and reconcile them after being parted twelve years by the intolerable meddlesomeness of an unreasonable mother-in-law. The part of the mother-in-law was well taken by Gladys Manley.
